The Dedication

We, the Class of 1996, dedicate this yearbook to Mr. James Frontero, Assistant Principal of MHS who will be retiring after twenty years of service. A dignified, compassionate, considerate, and respectable gentleman, Mr. Frontero will be missed by

A graduate of Everett High School and Northeastern University, Mr. Frontero spent time as a teacher and football coach in Ipswich, a middle school teacher in Everett, and has also worked as a guidance counselor and adjustment counselor. He has had experience, not only with schools, but also with courts and local communities.

Almost everyone in our class has seen or met Mr. Frontero. He enthusiastically supports all the activities that take place at the school, whether it be orchestra performances, choral and band concerts, athletic events, plays, or just informal gatherings. He is always on top of the achievements of MHS, and freely praises all who achieve, no matter what area. Mr. Frontero has actively encouraged and mentored numerous students to become all that they can be. He is passionate about youth and their potential and he has helped many to achieve their goals.

After he retires. Mr. Frontero will spend time with his four grown children and their families, and take a little time to relax and enjoy his life by reading, playing golf, and starting a part-time job that will connect his love of children with his expertise in counseling.

The Class of '96 will miss Mr. Frontero and his smile. He leaves the class with these words of wisdom:

"Be thankful for what you have and-try to make someone's day better than it was before he met you."

The Opening

We have traveled a long way to reach this next step to our future. Much of our success we owe to our parents and families, our teachers, coaches, and friends, but we also need to give credit to ourselves for persevering. We have persevered through the exhilarating ups and disappointing downs and our emotional highs and lows. When we look at ourselves, the Class of '96, it is obvious that we are a unique group, one with differing personalities, needs, and dreams, but one which has found ways to rise above these differences, to unite and work toward common goals. It is from this experience that we take our theme: Coming Together. Doesn't this phrase depict our school experience as a whole?

During our years together we have joined together through many exciting and sometimes trying experiences. In fifth grade, we became the first class to leave those "hallowed halls" of elementary school and enter with both anticipation and trepidation those of middle school. There we were united as the first sixth grade class to test the "team" approach to learning. For the next three years, we helped prove that the middle school concept could work successfully. Later, in high school we faced the restructured PSAT's and SAT's, managed to learn the new strategies, and survived the tests. Even later in high school we lived through the transition involving our high school principals. Within a short period Mr. Croston retired and Dr. Hayes was selected to fill his position. We were the class that came together to help make the transition flow smoothly.

Together we supported and encouraged our merit scholars, our solid academics, our class leaders, our talented musicians and singers, our exceptional athletes, our gifted artists, and our dedicated fund-raisers.

Together, we faced each day on our journey with flexibility and tenacity. We remained a close knit class regardless of the challenges before us. Because of our abilities to utilize our differences to the best advantage, we proved that together anything is possible.

At ever major event, the Freshman and Sophomore Semiformals, the Sophomore Valentine's Day Dance, Field Day, the Halloween Dance, the Winter Ball, and both the Junior and Senior Proms, we exhibited our unity and acceptance of one another. By dispelling our preconceived illusions, we were able to recognize classmates for their individual qualities and talents, and learned that we could all join in the fun together.

We managed to organize an array of class functions that were new, exciting, successful, and unmatched by any other class. Remember our sophomore year? Many grades before us only had Field Day as the event of the year, but we had grander ideas. We managed to have the first Sophomore Semi, a Valentine's Day Dance, and Field Day. We always pushed the envelope.

We came together in spirit as we travelled through our school career. Now we are ready to move on to a world full of excitement and new beginnings. The Melrose High experience will definitely hold us in good stead.

Coming Together, we see the future and it is ours.
Good Luck to The Class of 1996!

Junior Prom

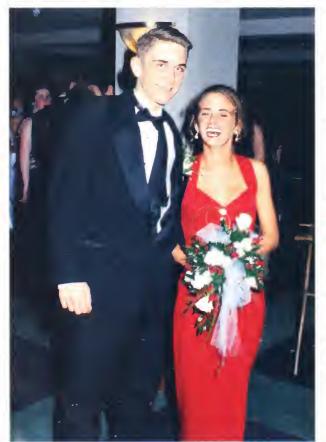

The night has finally arrived. After all the preparing, apprehension, and anxiety April 7th is here. The butterflies in our stomachs become unbearable, either from nervousness or from not eating anything all day. After being completely frustrated by parents and having cameras flashing in our faces, the class of 1996 was off to the Crowne Plaza in Woburn for an unforgettable evening.

As soon as the class started entering the plaza, it became a scene from Cinderella: a staircase of dreams leading the class to an enchanted ballroom filled with girls in gorgeous dresses and boys in handsome tuxedos.

It was a night to remember, a night to call our own and everyone will agree that the theme song "We've Got Tonight" summed up the whole evening.

Tom McGill is concentrating on his computer work for Auto Cad.

Katie Leduc does not seem to mind her job of drying the muffin tray.

Cooking requires prep time and cleaning time and John Bleiler has learned his lesson by washing dishes after the food is made.

Tricia Halloran begins the first few stitches of her next project.

Together At Last

As we began our freshman year at Melrose High, everything seemed to go by so slowly, but little did we know that the years would soon fly by. Over these four years, we each have developed our own unique personalities, created fond memories, and made friends who will last a lifetime. Although we started out as lost souls, wandering through the halls aimlessly in search of our classes, we were soon bound together through schoolwork, sports, parties, and activities. The Class of '96 is not a group of strangers anymore-it is a group of friends. We are no longer the freshmen we used to be, unknown to each other. We are now the seniors-together at last.

Retirees

Melrose High School has a number of faculty this year who will be retiring after teaching at MHS... well for many years. They all will be greatly missed and we all wish them the best of luck!

Mr. Lawrence Leistinger first entered the Melrose school system as a science coordinator for grades seven through twelve in 1970. With a bachelor's degree in Psychology and Chemistry from the University of New Hampshire, a master's degree in Chemistry from UNH, and a master's from Salem State in Education, Mr. Leistinger later employed his knowledge by teaching chemistry to the students at Melrose High School.

Mr. Leistinger was born in St. Petersburg, Florida and lived in northern New Hampshire before settling down in Massachusetts. At the outset of his career, Mr. Leistinger was not sure in what direction he was headed. What he did know, however, was that he was always interested in chemistry. He felt that he explained concepts well and decided to take advantage of a teaching opportunity.

Although he had no preconceived ideas about teaching, he ultimately discovered that he enjoyed working with the students. His students benefitted from his devotion and commitment to teaching, sense of humor, and dedication to the students' needs.

With all the extra time that he will have on his hands, Mr. Leistinger is not sure about future plans yet, except traveling. His words of advice -"Be sincere in objectives" - a message that he leaves to all at Melrose High School, will lead him as well as those at MHS to great happiness in the future and success in whatever he decides to pursue. We will truly miss Mr. Lawrence Leistinger as a fellow staff member, an educator, and a friend.

Melrose High School has been very fortunate to have Mrs. Andrea Taffe as part of our staff for twenty eight years. Mrs. Taffe made a positive impact among many students as a physical education, health and peer education teacher. She has always been a very dedicated person who is always willing to go out of her way to help the student body. Her involvement with the student body ranges from being the tennis, gymnastics and golf coach, peer education advisor, and the advisor of the newly formed Multicultural Club. Mrs. Taffe will continue to be active in the community of Melrose with her involvement with the American Association of American Women, acting as the liaison between the Melrose Human Rights Commission and MHS, liaison between the Alliance vs. Violence and MHS, as well as being a community service member on the Melrose Wakefield Hospital Association. After retirement Mrs. Taffe will continue being active by playing golf with her husband, traveling and remaining involved with equity interests based upon human rights. There is no doubt that Melrose High School will miss the dedication and loyalty that Mrs. Taffe brought to the student body everyday.

Mr. Peter Brown has been teaching history in Melrose for thirty-three years. He grew up in Melrose, attended the Melrose School System and was a Melrose High School graduate. In college, Mr. Brown majored in History at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. He attended graduate school at Wesleyan the American University in Beirut, and the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

For many years Mr. Brown has been the head of student trips to Paris. He has enjoyed running the trips and will continue to bring groups over to Paris with his wife, who is a teacher at North Andover High School. After retirement, Mr. Brown plans to do some archeological work on Mayan and Anasazi sites, go on extended travels to Paris, and read all the books that he has not yet been able to read.

When asked if Mr. Brown had one final thing to say to Melrose teachers and students, he replied,

"It is impossible for me to ever think of teaching anywhere else other than McIrose. Growing up in MeIrose and going through the school system here I have developed a certain loyalty to MeIrose students."

Mrs. Mary Fandel, R.N., came to Melrose High School eleven years ago after having worked at Lawrence Memorial Hospital in Medford, Massachusetts. After she graduated from Medford High School, she attended the Lawrence Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, where she earned her degree. Since then, she has devoted her time and energy into caring for her patients, making sure that they receive proper medical treatment. At one time or another, most students at Melrose High have visited Mrs. Fandel in the nurse's office. They discovered that she was always more than willing to listen to their troubles and give advice for personal and medical problems.

Upon the brink of retirment, Mrs. Fandel reflects upon her career at Melrose High School. One of the reasons why she chose to be a nurse is because she is able to see someone recover from an illness. It provides a great sense of accomplishment for her - a feeling that she hopes to keep alive even after retirement. She will remain active and keep mentally alert by becoming a substitute teacher, doing senior citizen inoculations, visiting her grandchildren, and working with the Board of Health.

All at MHS will miss Mrs. Fandel. She has made a positive impact on the lives of both the students and faculty and her absence will be greatly felt. Her fondest memories of MHS were watching each senior class graduate. She hopes that the future graduates will realize the significance of a high school diploma:

"Be serious about your education. Take advantage of everything you can at Melrose High. Get a good education... because education is the key to success."

Mr. Albert Cutting came to teach in Melrose in 1962. Known best for the fictitious character, Mary Smith, Mr. Cutting graduated from Watertown High School, then attended Northeastern University for Chemical Engineering, where he became a member of Tau Beta Pi. Mr. Cutting then went to work for Exxon and received his masters from Northeastern while working there. He also received a National Science Foundation grant and went to Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute to receive his masters in Physics and Chemistry while teaching in Melrose. He also attended school at Taft University in Connecticut, and for the past two summers has attended the National Science Foundation upgrade for Physics teachers.

Mr. Cutting is married and has four children, three boys and one girl. He is a longtime resident of Wakefield and "plans to stay there." When asked if there was one last thing he would like to tell Melrose teachers and students he replied.

"I'd like to tell the truth . . . I'll miss the students."

Piecing The Gaps

When entering the halls of Melrose High in the fall of 1992 many things were unclear to us. We needed to realize the true picture of ourselves. Questions needed to be answered. The gaps needed to be filled. The puzzle needed to be completed. The missing pieces of our high school years were found through the help of Melrose's dedicated staff. These gaps were filled by the wisdom and courage of our teachers. The pieces they provided us were guided by our administrators. We were always greatly encouraged to complete the picture by these caring people. Our picture is now clear. We will always be grateful for their hard work and understanding.

Playing Together

Being a student athlete at Melrose High School is not only challenging and demanding, but also exciting, fun, and rewarding. Many students participate in a variety of sports at MHS. While some play two or three sports, others only join in one here or there. But, whatever their choice, Melrose athletes enjoy the exhilaration of being on the field, court, track, or in the pool or gym. Every athlete contributes to the school spirit and pride at MHS and every athlete makes a difference.

This year's spring track team was a great success and I hope next year is even better.

Laurie Meharg is concentrating on running the 300 hurdles and crossing the finish line first.

Holding the record in the long jump with 15 1 /2 inches, Carolyn Makredes tries to surpass her mark.

This season's spring track team led by Coach Porter, Coach Allison and Captains Wendy Schreiber ('95), Emily Ferrick ('95), and Mellisa Sherman ('95), put up a good fight until the end. As the season progressed, the team grew stronger.

This years seniors ('95) were Captains Wendy Schreiber, Emily Ferrick and Melissa

Sherman, Susan MacLeod, Melissa Groves and Heather Goodwin.

All-Stars Sue MacLeod, for the 800, Wendy Schreiber, for the mile, Melissa Cunningham, for the 400 and Carolyn Makredes, for the triple jump, were great assets to the team. It was not uncommon to see Wendy Schreiber lapping her opponents as she was one of the top competitors in the Middlesex League. Since she almost always won, the coaches could always count on her for scoring points. In the last meet of the season against Wakefield, Wendy set a new record in the mile with a time of 5:10. Carolyn Makredes almost beat the record of 109 points with 97 points in the season. Sophomore Melissa Cunningham broke many records during this season. One of which was running the 440 in 60 seconds. As a freshman, Liz Goodwin consecutively finished at the top in both the javelin and the discus. Next season's Captains Maura Pelham and Megan Sierak dominated the 300 hurdles.

The most memorable moments were the bus rides with Captain Wendy's pink radio playing "Son of a Preacher Man," the team's song.

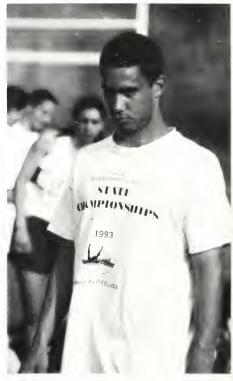

Melissa Cunningham, who holds the record in the 440 with 60 seconds, thinks about beating her record before the race.

Captain Wendy Schreiber and Coach Porter talk strategy before the race.

Long stride and all, Mike Iappini approaches yet another hurdle. Mike excelled in hurdles this year.

Apparently disturbed by a past performance, Henry Turner looks on. Henry will lead next year's team as its captain.

Under the leadership of captains Marc Young ('95) and Jim O'Malley ('95), the Melrose Boys Outdoor Track Team pole vaulted to a record of 3-6. Winning their first two meets against Belmont and Burlington, the team had reason for optimism, but then they met the meat of the league and could only manage one win against Watertown the rest of the way.

Despite their mediocre record, Melrose had its share of great athletes. They were well represented at the state meet as nine members of the qualified. Marc Young, Jim O'Malley, Adam Federico ('95), David Appleyard ('95), Robert Wadland ('95), Henry Turner, Chris Lento, Damon Isles, and Mike Iappini all performed well, but failed to place.

Perhaps Melrose's best win came against a respectable Burlington squad. The team went into the meet short-handed, without Henry Turner, Dave Appleyard, and Brian Blanchard, but, incredibly, the remainder of the team pulled together and managed to pull out at 70-66 win. The highlight of this year's team took place at the league meet. The 4 X 100 relay, made up of Robert Wadland, Henry Turner, Adam Federico, and Damon Isles, put together a terrific race and finished in second place behind league power Reading.

With the return of next year's captains Henry Turner and Chris lento, along with four other lettermen, the track team's expectations should be high. If they can fare better in the field events (shot put, discus, and javelin), where they have notoriously struggled, and continue to thrive in the other events, they might end up in the top half of the league.

This year's tennis team had a memorable season. Coach Julie Briggs helped the team sharpen their skills and encouraged the girls to have a fun, successful year. Her motivation and enthusiasm helped the young group deal with the problems that arose during the rebuilding year.

The season started out strong with a win against Watertown. Melrose held a record of 2-0 against them this season. Unfortunately they were the only two matches that the team was able to win. But don't be fooled by their record the team worked hard throughout the season and showed a lot of improvement.

The seniors who led this year's young tennis team were Tara Cargill ('95) and Captain Joanna Tighe ('95), both sharing the difficult task of being the number one singles seed. For the first half of the year Tara went up against the best in the league and for the second half Joanna took over. Sophomore Lauren Doherty was seeded third on varsity. She played very aggressively, therefore the team will depend on her in the future. Lauren, along with Melissa Schofield, will be next year's captains.

There were many other contributing players. Sophomore Mary-Kate Mastrangelo was partnered up with freshman Margaret McKinley. They held the first doubles position. The two worked well as partners even though this was their first year playing together. Sophomores Heather Mitchell and Tonna Vaccaro were the second doubles team. Since both pairs will return next year, the team looks into the future confidently.

Smirking Melissa Schofield is already thinking up ways to torture the girls next year, as she will be co-captain along with Lauren Doherety Stretching out to get to the ball, junior Joshua Kepnes smashes a forehand at his opponent. Josh is going to be one of the team's two returning seniors.

Daniel Kourtz easily delivers a smashing forehand. Dan proved to be a great first year player and hopes to be a key contributor in the upcoming season.

The 1995 boy's tennis team had a promising season led by Coach Peter Lund and Captain Brian Carroll ('95). With the help of Chris Molina ('95) and Eric Nordstrom ('95), the Red Raiders posted a respectable record of 7-11. The team showed great pride and determination after suffering a devastating loss to Lexington, 5-0, and rebounding with an outstanding win over Watertown, shutting them out 5-0. They later gave another outstanding performance, shutting out Watertown for the second time.

Junior Joshua Kepnes, sophomores Daniel Casey and Matthew Roselli, and freshman Daniel Kourtz and Joseph Finn all played an important part in the team's success. As the team's top seeded player, Daniel Casey made major contributions as did team doubles player Matthew Roselli. Freshman Daniel Kourtz and Joseph Finn added some much needed raw talent to the team.

With over ten returning players, the team has high hopes of repeating last season's succes. The team will no doubt look to upcoming senior Joshua Kepnes and top player Daniel Casey for leadership. It would be no surprise to see this team climb to the top of the Middlesex league.

The entire infield is huddled at the mound, planning their strategies and preparing for a quick 1-2-3 inning.

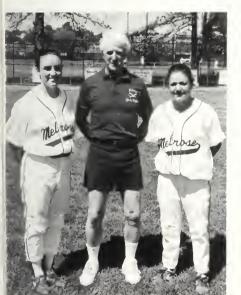

Coming very close to accomplishing their goal of making the State Tournament, the team fell short of one win in which that loss knocked them out of the game. Since the Middlesex League is one of the toughest in the state, Melrose fought through each and every game, conquering most and losing a very few. Even though this year was a rebuilding season, the team came a long way. Next year, Melrose will be a powerhouse and will be greatly feared throughout the league.

Playing for the veteran Head Coach Don MacLeod during his final year of coaching, the team pulled together mentally and physically to bring a smile of triumph upon his face. Leading the young and inexperienced team were senior Captains Heidi Stevenson ('95) and Amy Dolan ('95). Other graduating seniors that led the team with experience were Jill Grabiec ('95) and Katie Bleiler ('95). These four controlled both the defense and the offense. Heidi at the shortstop and Grabiec at firstbase dominated the infield, while Amy Dolan in centerfield took command of the outfield. With Bleiler on the mound, the Melrose defense was solid and unbreakable.

At bat, Melrose was very competent against the tough rivals they battled. With a strong line-up, Melrose was aggressive and unstoppable. Heidi Stevenson, batting third in the line-up, led not only the team in hitting, but also the entire Middlesex League. Next year her sister Sarah will take over her reign.

The All-Stars for the year were Amy Dolan and Heidi Stevenson, for Heidi's third year in a row.

Captain Amy Dolan ('95), Head Coach Don MacLeod, and Captain Heidi Stevenson ('95).

"Take that!" senior hurler Katie Bleiler thinks. Katie was the starting pitcher for the team and will be greatly missed next year.

Don't ever tell Mark Babbit to lay off the high ones, he likes them.

In order to qualify for the tournament, a place where Melrose has not been since 1989, the Red Raiders had to win at least half of their twenty games. And they did just that, but it was not easy. Melrose started off the season fantastically, winning seven of the first eleven games. Solid play from All-Star and Captain Mike Chaffee ('95), captain Steven Healey ('95) and Junior All-Stars Jonathan Troy and Zack Brown boosted Melrose to that impressive beginning. One of the many highlights from those seven wins was a 10-9 victory in extra innings over Lexington at Morelli Field, Melrose led throughout most of the game until last inning heroies tied the game for Lexington. Finally, in the bottom of the ninth, Steven Healey singled in the winning run.

But all of a sudden, the team went sour and Melrose only managed to win two out of their next eight games. So, the Red Raiders entered their last game of the season with a 9-10 record, one win away from the tournament. Ironically the last game was against Lexington, a team that was very hungry for revenge. Zack Brown pitched a great game for Melrose as they squeaked by the Minutemen, 5-4, appropriately ending the game with a 5-4-3 double play.

Unfortunately, Melrose did not fare too well in the tournament, winning the first game against Greater Lawrence but losing to Lynn Classical in the second game. The loss eliminated the Red Raiders from the tournament but this team had no reason to hang their heads. Although their record did not indicate it, they played much better than .500 ball.

This year's swim team made quite a splash! Although their record might not show what strong swimmers were on the team, the girls had a lot of individual talent. Coach Linda O'Konowski put together some strong relay teams and supported the girls every step of the way.

This year's seniors were Megan Sierak, Mackenzie Silverio, Erica Farrell, Amy LeBlanc, Lauren O'Malley, Leigha Zedros, Sara Strangi, and Rachel Frederick. Bob Sweezy, one of the top players on the team, takes an easy swing, lofting the ball onto the green.

Despite only two seniors, Gabe Gillis and captain Jim Donohue, the young Melrose golfers managed to put together another great season, going 6-3. Melrose faced some adversary early in the season, as they lost two of their first three matches, causing aspirations for another state tournament birth to seem bleak. But, the team hung tough, winning five of their next six matches, and thus reserving a spot for the squad at the site of the state tournament: The Thompson Club in North Reading.

Melrose was lead by the outstanding play of sophomore Chris Young. Chris held the first spot in Melrose's strong lineup, and was voted in as the team's only All-Star. Other outstanding performances were turned in by Bob Sweezey, Jim Donohue, Kevin Murphy, and Luke Antolini.

With the loss of only one of their top eight golfers (Jim Donohue), the expectations for next year are sky rocketing. Look for Melrose to avenge their three losses to Winchester, Woburn, and Burlington, and find themselves, once again, at the top of the Middlesex League.

Senior co-captain Jessica Mason is heading out of the woods and determined to win the race.

Effort, determination, and pride is what the Lady Raider's cross country team was all about. The team worked hard and had time to have a little fun and create a lot of long-lasting memories. The team was led by Coach Maci, who gave an abundunce of support and guidance, and also by co-captains Jessica Mason and Pam Costello, who added leadership and experience.

All and all the team's attempts were a total team effort. Next year the attitudes and determination will shine through and create a winning season for the team.

Run Lori run, and don't miss the ball

This year's quad-captains Liz Larcano, Tricia Hyde, Jessica Keefe and Lori Maccario and Coach Cunningham paved the way for the young varsity team. Luck decides the outcome of many games. Unfortunately, luck never favored the girls soccer team this year. A couple of goals made the difference in many games. They faced many challenging and talented teams. The team's record does not reflect the player's skill level nor their competitiveness.

One of the best feelings was when the team played Winchester for the second time. The girls knew that Winchester planned another 9-0 victory. But if the Winchester girls wanted to walk all over the Melrose team they did not know they had something else coming their way. Melrose's strong defense kept the ball out of their net. When halftime came the score was 0-0. This brought an uplifting feeling to Melrose and groans of disappointment to Winchester. Melrose kept the score at 0-0 until there were thirteen minutes left in the game. Within that time Winchester scored four goals to win the game 4-0.

Laurie Meharg was the leading scorer of the team. She was helped by the two freshmen who played on varsity, Yasmin Khawja and Lauren Larcano. The Melrose girls were the only team in the Middlesex League who did not receive a yellow card.

In the hot September weather and in the cold winds of October, great effort and high spirits gave the girls soccer team a hardworking season. Hopefully next year's captains, Jill Puleo, Laurie Meharg and Lauren Murphy, will do as good a job as this year's. Do not forget: the pasta parties, toilet papering the boys' houses, "From Cost to Cost", "Don't Worry Be Apple", the last practice, and Colleen, keep your shorts on.

Captains Jessica Keefe and Lori Maccario, Coach Cunningham, and captains Tricia Hyde and Liz Larcano.

"Wait a minute", thinks Jill, "am 1 still playing in a soccer game?"

Celebrating his goal, Bert Stoker tells everybody he's #1. In actuality, Bert was one of the top players in the league.

Junior Andy Ward scans the field for an open teamate.

Coming off a year in which the Red Raiders failed to pull off a victory, there was need for change. Therefore, coach Rick Byman was brought in to turn things around, and with some young talent along with good senior leadership in the form of co-captain Chris Lento, Mike Iappini, James Welch, Marc Pavao, Shane Shaffer, and Kenny Thomas, there was reason for some optimism.

Although the season started slowly with a couple of tough losses, it was obvious that this year's team was far superior to that of a year ago. Melrose was rewarded for their good play with a victory over Stoneham. What would be a typical 2-0 victory for most teams was far from typical for Melrose. This win snapped a 23 game winless streak that had dated back to the 1993 season. Melrose continued their competitive play throughout the remainder of the season, managing to win four more games on the way to a 5-12-1 season.

Despite a sub par record, Melrose had their share of talent. Four players, Jeremiah Thorpe, Matt Roselli, eo-captain Peter Veneziano, and Bert Stoker were voted in as All-Stars, Bert eonsidered by many to be one of the top players in the league.

With these four All-Stars, along with an array of other young talent returning, next year should be a successful one. With a little luck and a lot of skill, coach Byman's team could be on it way to its first state tournament in quite some time.

Poised to kick the ball downfield is junior Billy Camelio.

This year's field hockey team had quite a season. They ended up being one of Melrose's top fall sport teams. Their impressive record of nine wins, six loses, and three ties was a very big accomplishment since the Middlesex league is one of the toughest leagues around. The girls ended up placing fourth in the league. Coach Jan Johnston was very pleased with the efforts her team put forth throughout the season.

Their tremendous efforts throughout the season led to a state tournament birth. The girls traveled to Weston, MA for the tournament. During the week of their first game, Melrose High School showed their support for the field hockey team with a lot of spirit all around the school. Buses were even set up so that spectators could be transported out to Weston to watch the game and cheer on the Melrose squad.

Unfortunately, the Melrose team only lasted through the first round of competition. They were defeated by Weston, the host of the tournament. However, this in no way shows the capabilities that the team had. They were a solid team the entire season, and no one can say that they did not have spirit.

The three seniors who led the Melrose team this year were tri-captains Nicole Keller, Maura Pellham, and Abigail Sutherland. The trio showed a lot of good qualities. Each girl showed leadership in both skill and attitude.

Jon Troy, the Red Raiders number one receiver, gets set to make another one of his many receptions.

The 1995 Red Raiders finished another exciting season by ending the year with a winning record of 6-4. The season started off great with the Red Raiders elaiming victory in their first four games. Malden, Belmont, Burlington, and Woburn were their first four victims. In these games Melrose played with ferocious intensity and had an almost flawless performance. However the Red Raiders hit a snag when they met with an undefeated Reading team losing 42-8. Their luck did not change the next week when they met with a fired up Stoneham team. The game was close, but in the end Stoneham wound up on top and the Raiders fell to 4-2. Although the team was devastated by the two recent losses, they bouneed back with their never give up attitude and ended their losing streak at two. The Red Raiders, under coach Morris, returned to their normal style of play and won their next two outings against Winehester and Lexington. The team was in high spirits heading into their next game but were stunned when they fell to an underrated Watertown team. The loss only seemed to make the team more focused and work harder for their next game against long time rival Wakefield on Thanksgiving Day. It was another great game but the Raiders luck ran out when in the final minutes a Wakefield receiver ran for a 15 yard touchdown that put the Warriors ahead for good.

Despite a few surprising and disappointing losses the Red Raiders ended the season with their heads held high. They gave it everything they had and they never quit.

Captains Brian Blanchard, and Jeff Iudice, march onto the field to lead their team into battle.

With perfect form, Caitlin O'Leary demonstrates the epitome of a good pass. Caitlin was a back-line defender and a strong asset to the team.

Grouping their thoughts, the Melrose line-up is concentrating on their game while waiting to take the court and dominate over their opponents.

Under the coaching of Donna Marinelli (D1), the Melrose Volleyball team had shaky hopes with a disturbing outcome. With only one senior and three other returning Varsity players, the team was very young, inexperienced and intimidated. With many ups and downs, the team fell short of one win which bumped them out of the state tournament.

Although Melrose ended up with a record of 11-9, the team always fought each point with their best effort. This record simply does not do their season justice. The Middlesex League is the toughest in the state, no matter what sport, and Melrose was represented with respect, class, dignity,

The highlight of the season was the night of the Raiders last home game. Their rival, North Reading, waltzed in with smiles but snuck out in tears. Right from the opening serve, Melrose dominated the court. Perfection was achieved that night by the players, indivually and as a team. Every rally they won, every ball they dug, and every hit was kill. With the bleachers filled, and the crowd cheering them on all the way, Melrose was unstoppable. The first set was won and the second also not long after that.

Hopefully, keeping the memories of that game in the back of their minds and also only losing one senior, Melrose wil have high hopes next year and dominate the entire Middlesex League and continue on winning into the State Tourna-part of the successful year that the football team had. No matter what happens on the fields, the cheerleaders were always there to support the Melrose teams. They boosted the spirits of the players and the crowd when times were rough, and arroused them when things looked up.

The football and soccer cheerleaders should not forget all of the good times: the shaving cream fights, the mailman, cookies and chocolate milk, the exhibition, powder, fishes, the Turkey Toss, DDWTBB, "You are so obnoxious!", "Lets, pull up your black things!", "Who's the leak?", "Band, band are you ready?", "It's all Jen's fault!", "Let's go out to the kitchen" and "cookie, gobble, gobble, gobble, gobble."

Tossing his opponent over his back, Mike Sweezey attempts to gain some points.

Jeff Iudice, who is ranked #1 in the state at 160 lbs., twists his adversary with ease into whatever position he wants.

The past season for the Red Raiders has been a decent one. Every member of the team has contributed significantly. Among those who have done especially well this season are senior Jeff ludice and juniors Steve Mulvihill and Mike Sweezey, all of whom share the title of captain. Along with displaying strong leadership, these three have kept the Raiders in the hunt to become one of the top teams in the Middle-sex League.

Senior Captain Jeff Iudice, undefeated so far this year, is currently ranked as one of the top wrestlers in the state and has placed well individually in several tournaments. This season Jeff is the favorite to win just about every tournament that he enters. Jeff has been a phenomenal wrestler during his years as a Red Raider and the team will definitely miss him next year.

Although the team will not have the help of their top wrestler next year does not mean that they will not have a quality squad. The Red Raiders will still have two returning captains along with two other talented juniors, Sean Savage and Eric Navarro. Also contributing to the team is sophomore Sean Kingsley and freshmen James and Joe Mattera. With all of this returning talent, Melrose is sure to beat up on some Middlesex opponents next year.

The Girls Gymnastics Team finished the 1995-1996 season with a commendable record of 4-3. Disappointed by the results of the previous season, the team added three more win to last year's one. With the help of new head coach Denise Valdez, the enthusiasm of volunteer coach Rick Deigan, the experience of senior Co-Captains Jennifer Basteri and Rachel Downey, and the determination of new team members, the team proved that they will be a "force to be reckoned with" in the future.

Undefeated in the first four meets, the Lady Raiders faced the challenge of competing against three power-house opponents. Wakefield, the league champion, and Woburn had clearly outperformed the Melrose squad, yet the team was pleased with their routines. The most frustrating competition of the season occurred versus Burlington. Although the Raiders executed their moves with more precision than the opposing team, the judges thought otherwise. Instead of being a tight-scoring meet, the judges robbed the Melrose team and handed those much-needed points, (as coach Denise Valdez would say: "I'll take three-tenths over a cabin any day"), to Burlington.

The losses to these league rivals did not detract from the individual performances of each team member. Jennifer Basteri finished her outstanding four year career at MHS with a strong season. She placed fourth on the uneven parallel bars at the Middlesex League Meet and won the Coach's Award, a prestigious honor given to a gymnast who displays school spirit, sportmanship, and deication. She also qualified for the state meet on bars and was elected as a league All-Star. Junior Hilary Mortali, who competed all-around, was acknowledged with an honorable mention and will be a key competitor for the young squad.

Sophomores Maggie McKinley, Kristen Phillion, and Kimberly Groves contributed with routines on events such as vault, beam, and floor. The team has league-champion potential stored in form of freshmen Theresa Turner, Katie Wallace, Jackie Rotondi, Jodi Litrenta and Laura Crosby. As they look forward to the next season, they reflect upon this season's fun as "EEE-AWW - OUACK!"

Jodi Litrenta shows promise for the team in the future with a very elegant scale on the balance beam.

With a determined look on his face, Henry Turner shows off his perfection of the butterfly stroke.

Dan Kourtz has a reason to smile, as his team finished the season with a perfect record.

Can you say PERFECT? because this year's Boys Swim Team certainly can. Tri-captains Mike Burke, Henry Turner, and Mark Goodhue and their mascot in the form of a duck led their team to an amazing regular season record of 7-0.

The Red Raiders were tested in their first meet against a powerful Winchester team. Going into the meet, they knew it was going to be nothing less than a war, and when the smoke settled they pulled off a one point victory. After finishing their regular season, Melrose went on to the league meet, expecting another victory. Melrose battled with Reading and Winchester throughout, and before the beginning of the last race, the 400 freestyle relay, each team had a shot to win. But Melrose ended any doubts of a loss, as the quartet of Andrew Rawson, Andrew Schweihs, Dick Brinley, and Eric Fredrick grasped the victory in a tight race.

The league champions were loaded with talent. Their six All-Stars included Mark Goodhue in the 50 freestyle and 100 backstroke, Andrew Rawson in the 200 and 500 freestyle, Andrew Schweihs in the 200 IM and 400 freestyle relay, Dick Brinley in the 200 IM and 400 freestyle relay, Henry Turner in the 200 freestyle and 100 butterfly, and Eric Frederick in the 50 freestyle and 400 freestyle relay.

Henry Turner was the team's and league's best swimmer. His ability and performances were far superior to anybody's that he faced. He went undefeated in all his individual races and because of his unmatched work ethic and determination, he is considered by many as the best swimmer in the 50 freestyle in New England.

With the lost of Henry, and the three other seniors, Mark Goodhue, Mike Burke, and Joe Elia, one might think that next year's team might struggle. But, with four All-Stars remaining, along with some other very good young talent, the Red Raiders will have a very good chance to successfully defend their Middlesex League crown.

Mike Burke gasps for air and takes a quick look at the crowd as he propels himself forward.

The 95-96 season was not the greatest season for the Red Raiders, but they gave it their best shot and showed signs of a positive future. The Red Raiders started off the season with 0 wins, 4 losses, and finished the season with 6 wins, 11 losses and 3 ties. Although their record does not show the signs of a great team, every loss was a hard-fought one that left the opposing team tired and feeling lucky to just pull off the win. This team may not have had the best season this year but they definitely have the potential of becoming a powerhouse in the Middlesex league in the near future. With thirteen varsity players returning next year, the team will have the advantage of having experienced players. Junior Bert Stoker will take over next year as the team's full time goalie and upcoming players like sophomores Jeff Delrossi, Steven Ciulla, and Rusty Garrity will provide some solid offense. Under the reign of the new head coach Dave Brady and his staff the Melrose basket-ball team had many new outlooks. Coach Brady arrived, without knowing or even seeing any of the girls. His hopes for the team and their futures were to rebuild and pick up a fast-break style of playing. With only one senior, and a lot of young, quick talent, the future for the Lady Raiders is looking better and better.

Adjusting to new coaching and methods is very difficult, but the team quickly got the hang of it. From the first week of new practices, it was obvious throughout the school which of the girls were brave enough to play. They were the ones hobbling down the hallway. "Pain is irrelevant to motion," that is their new motto, which was drilled into their head with each suicide and defensive slide.

The Middlesex league is by far the toughest and most demanding league in the state. The Lady Raiders' record does not even come close to reflecting the effort and ability put out by these athletes. With the best years to come, Melrose will be the most feared team in the league.

Throughout each game, win or lose, the Melrose team has always fought and battled through every one. They never gave up and they always gave it their all. Within the season, the team grew together and had fun. The memories and good times together completely shadow out their disheartening record, and keep the hopes up for next year. Good luck to the Lady Raiders next season.

Dean DiGregorio effectively boxes out his opponent and waits for yet another rebound

For the twelfth consecutive year the Melrose Red Raiders Boys' Basketball team qualified for the State Tournament. This season was more impressive, however, than years past because of the loss of senior, co-captain and point guard Zack Brown, who was also an All-Star last year, only eight games into the '95-'96 season. With tremendous resilience, team work and arduous hours of practice, the Red Raiders posted a 13-7 record, which was good enough for the seventh seed in the tournament.

After losing their first game to powerhouse Belmont by only a few points, Melrose had revenge on their mind when they hosted the Marauders at the Daffinee Gym. Senior co-captain Alton Powell and 6' 7" senior Marc Jackson played extremely well as Melrose dealt Belmont its third and ultimate loss of the season. The most disappointing loss of the season occurred at the first meeting between Melrose and Wakefield. With only four seconds remained in regulation. Melrose was leading by three points until a Warrior guard nailed a 3-pointer, thus sending the game into overtime. The game continued into double overtime and because of horrible officiating. Melrose finally lost when that same Wakefield guard scooped in a shot from ten feet away; a field goal which clearly left his hand after the buzzer sounded.

Much credit should be given to the outstanding and somewhat surprising play of center Marc Jackson who rose above and beyond expectations this year. Also, senior David Fabiano and junior Mark La-Bella, players who replaced the injured Zack Brown at point guard, performed brilliantly throughout the year. Mike Coughlin's outside shot, Dean DiGregorio's inside maneuvering, and Alton Powell's average of 17 points per game provided most of the offense for Melrose and they will be sorely missed next year. However, upcoming seniors Matt Lennon, Mark La-Bella, and Chris Sullivan along with underclassmen Chris McCarthy, Chris Young, and Andrew Downey, under Nick Papas' marvelous coaching techniques, will, undoubtedly, lead Melrose to the State Tournament once again.

Gathered by the rally cry "Melrose Winter Track rocks your lame . . . ," this year's Girl's Indoor Track team bundled up everyday to face the freezing temperatures. Under the leadership and enthusiasm of Captain Maura Pelham and seniors Lauren O'Malley and Abigail Sutherland, this year's team did not have enough "warm bodies" to win a meet. Often the team did not have enough competitors for every event. This winter's snow piled up on the track, forcing the girls to run up and down the dreaded Ashland St., while other teams in the league practiced in their warm indoor facilities. These girls deserve credit for enduring this season and always remaining spirited. The team thanks Coaches Mr. Porter and Sherlock for their dedication to the program. Despite such a small team and poor record, there were many outstanding performances. Maura Pelham, Melissa Cunningham, Laurie Meharg, Caroline Makredes, Selina Shane, and Lakeya Chambless all qualified for the State Championships at the new Reggie Lewis Center.

Melissa Cunningham is taking the last few moments before her race to concentrate.

The Drama Club is a group of extremely talented actors and technical people. Each year the members of the club work with love and dedication to put on their successful productions. The efforts everyone puts into the shows is more demanding than what most people would think. The commitment necessary to have a successful year with the Drama Club is both mentally and physically challenging for everyone involved. The club has actively participated in the Massachusetts High School Drama Guild workshops and the annual State Competitions, where the club ordinarily takes home numerous awards in both acting and design. Although the club had a bit of a rough start, everyone pulled together when the time arose and even though we were unable to have our usual fall production, we did have a very successful production of Medea in its place, which we also took to the State Competition. The club is a very "close-knit" family and will surely be missed by all the outgoing Seniors, as will all the dedication and patience of Mrs. Beliveau and Mr. Beardsley.

Adding Up the Pieces

LOG '96 was able to come together this year thanks to the generosity of community businesses and MHS students. The Business section appreciates all the local businesses that showed their support of MHS by purchasing an ad. We would also like to thank all the seniors who waited patiently in the resource center to get their ad pictures taken. We had record student ad sales this year thanks to the seniors! Adding up the Pieces of LOG '96 was made easy this year because of the tremendous financial support of businesses and students.

Together We Survived

Well believe it or not Log '96 is finished. It has been an amazing trip as the editors and stall came together and created this yearbook. Although sometimes we disagreed with one another (alc I have to say is baby blocks!) or struggled to meet the deadline ("What" The survey is due tomorrow!") we all persevered, survived, and produced what I believe is the best of what the Class of 1996 has to offer

Of course searbook is not all work since we were able to play a little. Who could ever forget Bryant College and Jodi's excellent choices of dance outlits, or the ever so famous Ben and Jerry who entered our lives for those three days. How about those incredible Sunday night pizza meetings? I do not think Jon, Gabe, and Ryan ever forgot a football or stereo each week. And of course excitement always entered the Resource Center when Mr. DiSanto dared to bring his two sons. Nick offered his amazing computer talents, while Joey maintained his status of Entert summent. Editor."

But now the hard work is over and the final production is one we can enjoy as work well done. Many thanks are due all around the board especially to all the editors and staff. Everyone put in an incredible effort and I thank you all for the cooperation. I am sure the editors are happy that I will not be calling them ever again to remind them of those 7:00 a.m. meetings (I am sure our sports editors are especially thankful that they will not be hearing my voice too often!!!), or give them layout or picture information or reiterate our most dreaded word-deadline!!! And of course I owe much thanks to the yearbook advisor, Mr. DiSanto and his family. I hope they survived my many late night phone calls. And how can Mr. DiSanto ever forget my constant chasing him down the halls of MHS?

So I speak for all of us when I say that we hope you enjoy the book. And I wish next year's yearbook staff and editors the best of luck. It will be an experience not to be believed!

The Editors: Top: Lauren Murphy, Elizabeth Beshong, Mike Iappini, Francesca Maddaluno, Colleen Eskin, Julie-Anne Dittmer, Karima Khawja Bottom: Mary-Kate Mastrangelo, Rachel Downey, Jodi Dakin, Beth Stiller, Gabe Gillis, and Lori Maccario

Editor-In-Chief, Julie-Anne Dittmer and Advisor, Mr. DiSanto stand proudly as another edition of the MHS yearbook is completed.

Adventuring to the world of yearbook at Bryant College are Joanna Dittmer, Julie-Anne Dittmer, Karima Khawja, Lori Maccario, Mary-Kate Mastrangelo, Beth Stiller, and Jodi Dakin.

Who said yearbook is not fun? Mike Iappini and Gia Rosenberg know how to relax when the pressure is on.

Far Left: Monkeying around at yearbook camp are Karima Khawja, Jodi Dakin, and Beth Stiller. Left: What would we have done without the great computer knowledge of the amazing and wonderful Nick DiSanto? Where is Joey?

Yearbook Artist Francesca Maddaluno and Computer Expert Daryl DuLong.

Faculty Staff: Assistant Editor Courtney Bleiler, and Editor Lauren Murphy.

Sports Staff: Top: Mari Agnes, Sara Fried, Editor Elizabeth Beshong, Ryan Blades Bottom: Jon Troy, and Editor Gabe Gillis.

Mary Burns, Mr. Gillick, and Mr. Tom Humphreys for use of the computers; Mr. Lane and Mrs. Hurley for the sports scoreboards; Mr. Hart for helping to edit some of the copy and offering his advice; the janitors for the use of the school at each and every hour possible; and of course Nick and Joey DiSanto for their exciting play by plays at our Sunday meetings.

The Closing

After many hours of dedication and hard work by the editors, staff, and advisor, this edition of Log '96 is ready to come to a close. We hope to capture the freshness of your high school years now so that in years to come you will be able to remember every precious aspect of them. The high school years are often discussed as the "best times of our lives", and, hopefully Log '96 has been able to capture some of the most memorable moments of it.

Through this book we hope that you have been able to connect our important theme, Coming Together, to our class and realize that The Class of 1996 was a class that came together and triumphed in every aspect of our high school years. We met many intense challenges, received many hard earned accolades, and grew emotionally and intellectually beyond even our own expectations. Now it is time to move on and begin another phase of our lives where we will begin new friendships, explore new academic and workplace challenges, and compete in different athletic events. We will face a whole new world. In the midst of these new chapters of our lives, we hope that this book will lawys be a reminder of the time when we came together and created the chapters of our Melrose High School history.

Good Luck Class of 1996!!!!
